

Bloomington RootsCamp

An open conference to discuss the recent political election.

Friday & Saturday. November 17–18, 2006

What did we learn in 2006? How can we apply those lessons in 2008 and beyond?

What are our next steps to strengthen political engagement?

RootsCamp is an open forum for any topic related to the Fall 2006 elections, including local, state and national races. Anyone can suggest a topic for discussion. Participants initiate conversations by (1) attending the event and (2) writing their discussion ideas on a whiteboard.

Friday, November 17

SESSION 1: “Campaigns”

Monroe County Public Library
303 E. Kirkwood (Rooms 1B–1C)
9a–Noon

SESSION 2: “Legislation”

Monroe County Public Library
303 E. Kirkwood (Rooms 1B–1C)
1p–4p

SESSION 3: “Activism”

School of Informatics, Indiana University
10th & Woodlawn (Main Lobby)
7p–10p

Saturday, November 18

SESSION 4: “Local Politics”

Ivy Tech Community College
200 Daniels Way (Student Commons)
9a–Noon

SESSION 5: “What’s Next?”

Ivy Tech Community College
200 Daniels Way (Student Commons)
1p–4p

Participants in each discussion are encouraged to focus on the session theme, but are never limited to it. Talk about what is on your mind.

For more information, visit <http://rootscamp.pbwiki.com/RootsCampBloomingtonIN>

To register, email kmakice@indiana.edu or call (812) 360–2557.